PACKAGE OVERVIEW

Looking for big game fly fishing in freshwater? Like the challenge of hooking and landing big sea-run fish? If so, we have just the package for you. The Skeena Region offers the fly fisher prime opportunities to target chrome-bright, aggressive Chinook (King) Salmon in two seasons.

SPRINGER CHINOOK ~ KALUM RIVER

The Kalum River boasts an incredible Springer Chinook fishery with highly aggressive salmon averaging 15 to 40 pounds and reaching 80-plus pounds. Yes, these hefty fish readily take flies! The Kalum is a mid-sized river with many boulder-studded runs and cobble and gravel pools. It fly fishes well and is perfectly suited to Spey Casting with a double-handed rod. In spring we may also fish the Skeena and Kitimat rivers. Late-running Steelhead are an additional attraction to this season.

SUMMER CHINOOK ~ KITIMAT, COPPER, KALUM AND SKEENA RIVERS

In summer we target the Kitimat, Copper, Kalum and Skeena rivers for Chinook averaging 20 to 40 pounds and ranging up to 80 pounds, and beyond. (The Skeena's biggest have been known to reach 100 pounds!) The Kitimat is a small to mid-sized river with cobble and gravel pools well-suited to swinging flies. We also fish the Kitimat estuary on in-coming tides for the hottest, brightest Chinooks. Bonus fish abound here too; the Kitimat has prolific runs of Chum and Pink Salmon. The Copper is a classic, mid-sized fly fishing stream with miles of great swinging water and boulder and cobble runs. The Copper hosts a prolific run of Chinooks and extremely hot early returning Summer-Run Steelhead. The broad and powerful lower Skeena is the main route for Chinook and Sockeye salmon headed to tributaries far upstream. But don't let the Skeena's size intimidate you, fishing the edges where salmon migrate is very productive.
